DECONSTRUCTING THE BODY:
MEDICAL ART, MEDICAL IMAGING AND THE ART OF MEDICINE

Richard E Kerber, MD

Professor

Department of Internal Medicine

University of Iowa

Thursday, September 24, 2015, 5:30-6:30
Medical Education Research Facility (MERF) 2116

This lecture will demonstrate how artists (primarily Western) have portrayed the human body, physicians, illness and treatments from about 1500 AD to the present. We will review the rise of medical imaging in the 20th century, and show how artists have incorporated these new imaging technologies into their art.
