

Why Use LION?

Literature Online (LION) is a database that all English majors and minors will find helpful because it contains:

- Biographical information about authors
- A dictionary of literary terms
- Literary encyclopedias
- Criticism of authors and their works
- Full text scholarly journal articles
- Full text of many literary works
- Filmed readings of poets' works
- Dramatized audio recordings of Shakespeare's plays
- And much more. See <http://lion.chadwyck.com/initSubscriptions.do> for complete information

Where can you find LION? It's on the UI Libraries' website, <http://www.lib.uiowa.edu>

Under Find Resources you'll see it in several places:

- In InfoHawk (use the "title beginning with" search and type in LION)
- In the alphabetical list of Databases
- In Resources by Subject: English and American Literature
- In LibGuides, English and American Literature

Remember: there are many, many other databases you should use for your research. LION is just one. Check the English and American Literature LibGuide mentioned above for more databases. Also, contact Kathy Magarrell kathy-magarrell@uiowa.edu for individual help.
