1. The meeting was called to order at 11:33 AM.
2. Culshaw gave a quick overview of the major components of the Libraries’ budget which includes collections, personnel, and operations. $37.6 million is budgeted to the Libraries for FY2021 although $6.6 million is assigned to the Law Library for materials purchases. We are meeting our reductions this year by freezing salary increases for P&S, holding searches, reducing collection spending and support, reduction to the student wage budgets due to cuts in library hours, and reduced travel expenditures.
3. The Libraries has established a new leadership framework comprised of three organizational teams and two advisory groups. New to us and currently being developed will be a library Staff Advisory Council and a DEAI Council. Liaisons from these new councils will have a voice on our Leadership Team.
4. Culshaw gave the committee an overview of student employment at the Libraries. Generally we have 160-170 employees but only have 108 this year due to reduced library hours. We employ both undergraduate and graduate students who learn a lot of workplace skills and are exposed to librarianship as a possible career. Our librarians support student success by instruction through classroom, assisting with resources, and hiring them to work for us allowing us to support student success in a way a lot of people don’t think about. In 2016, we started a scholarship program for our undergraduate student employees as well as an award opportunity for graduate student employees. We have awarded 41 scholarships totaling just over $81,000. All these funds come through donations.
5. Culshaw shared current occupancy counts for the Main Library for the fall semester. While of course our gatecount is down considerably from last year due to COVID, students are still using our facilities and the daily average has been growing.

I. The meeting was called to order at 9:30 AM. Introductions were made.

II. Burnett provided an overview of recent OER efforts on campus. Important to know who is using these resources. Provost innovation project Open Hawks is in the second year and we were able to fund 12 different projects for $75,000; projects included creating new OERs, writing new textbooks, and developing module systems. All will be openly licensed so that they can be re-used by anyone. Third year will focus on courses where the impact is high where textbook costs are high. There is a national movement to make OER more commonly adopted by professors.

III. Updates from University Librarian. Culshaw shared how reopening process has been for fall semester. We opened August 17 a week before classes resumed on the 24th. Staff continue hybrid or different work shifts. We started conservative with just daytime hours and not open on weekends. Now we are looking at adding weekend hours in October. Plans for spring are to continue services and hours that we are doing for fall.

IV. Possible topics for upcoming meetings: budget, new library governance structure, electronic resources update, review and update committee charge.
