

The University of Iowa History of Medicine Society and the University Libraries invite you to their annual Open House in the John Martin Rare Book Room

FRANKENSTEIN

Thursday, March 22nd
5-8 pm

John Martin Rare Book Room,
4th floor, Hardin Library for the Health
Sciences

Now in the 200th year since its publication, Mary Shelley's Frankenstein, or, the Modern Prometheus continues to raise questions about humanity, scientific ethics, and the place of the monster in our imaginations.

This event features books and manuscripts from the John Martin Rare Book Room and UIowa's Special Collections, which together trace the creation of the novel, and the scientific world that it grew out of.

An accompanying lecture by Pete Balestrieri will be held in Hardin (conference room 401) from 4-5.
